A Leader in Defective Drug and Whistleblower Cases

THE TRIAL ATTORNEYS AT SHELLER, P.C. HAVE ESTABLISHED a national reputation for representing the victims of defective products, unfair business practices and corporate wrongdoing, particularly in the pharmaceutical industry.

During this past year alone, the firm:

- Helped the federal government obtain the largest whistleblower settlement ($2.3 billion) in history against Pfizer
- Won a $2.5 million jury verdict against GlaxoSmithKline, the first in the country linking birth defects to the drug Paxil
- Filed a whistleblower case in which the firm's clients exposed a marketing scheme by Eli Lilly for its drug Zyprexa, leading to a $1.4 billion settlement

The firm also focuses on consumer protection, defective medical devices, motor vehicle accidents, personal injury, products liability and medical malpractice.

SHELLER FIRM PACKS A POWERFUL PUNCH

This Philadelphia-based firm, with national clients, has earned billions of dollars for its clients, which is a testament to its philosophy of personal, compassionate and aggressive representation. This year, four of the firm's lawyers have been selected to the Pennsylvania Super Lawyers® list.

Stephen A. Sheller, founder and managing partner of the firm, has also been named this year to the Top 100 Pennsylvania and the Top 100 Philadelphia lists. He concentrates in the areas of mass tort, class actions, defective drugs and whistleblower cases. He has received Martindale-Hubbell®'s highest AV-rating, the highest mark for skills and ethics.

Jamie L. Sheller has also been listed among the Top 50 Women lawyers in Pennsylvania. Sheller, whose practice includes products liability, mass torts and class actions, has consistently been named to the Super Lawyers list. Sheller, who has also received Martindale-Hubbell's highest AV-rating, was part of the trial team in the momentous Paxil birth defect case in 2009.

Brian J. McCormick Jr. was recently recognized as one of Pennsylvania's top lawyers under the age of 40. He focuses on consumer class actions, defective drugs and representing whistleblowers. McCormick recently completed his appointment by Philadelphia Mayor Michael Nutter to the Mayor's Task Force on Ethics and Campaign Finance.

Albert J. Brooks Jr. has again been selected to the Super Lawyers list. Brooks has achieved million-dollar jury awards and numerous confidential settlements. He also investigates vaccine injuries, and has litigated hundreds of these claims through mediation, arbitration and in the national vaccine injury compensation program.

The firm is also honored that one of its lawyers has been named to the Rising Stars list this year—Claudine Q. Homolash. In 2009, Homolash was identified as a "Lawyer on the Fast Track" in Pennsylvania.
